Living in the countryside has a lot of advantages, but also many disadvantages. As the advantage the country is less polluted and the traffic isn't so heavy. You don't need to worry about your health because the air and water are much cleaner. There aren't any huge blocks of flats, modern skyscrapers or traffic jams. In the country there are beautiful landscapes such as huge meadows, peaceful hills and forests. You also may build a big house and the garden easily because the prices for land are much cheaper than cities. Moreover, living in the countryside is cheaper than it is in the city, so you may afford many other things because the prices are lower. Another positive side is the safety. There aren't a lot of house breakings. In the countryside people usually keep eyes on neighbor's estates. Country life is very peaceful and silent.

On the other hand, there are also some disadvantages. Living in the country is slower. People don't need to hurry and have a lot of time, but they don't earn that much money. Moreover, there aren't interesting things to do during free time. The unemployment rate is also much higher than in the city. The problem may also be the communication. If you don't have your own car, you may have problems communicating to work. The same problem concerns the access to the hospitals, schools, police stations and shops, which are usually far from the village.
