The World's First Space Hotel to Open in 2027

"Going to space will just be another option people will pick for their vacation."

The Gateway Foundation has announced that it intends to open the first hotel in space, named Voyager Station, in 2027.

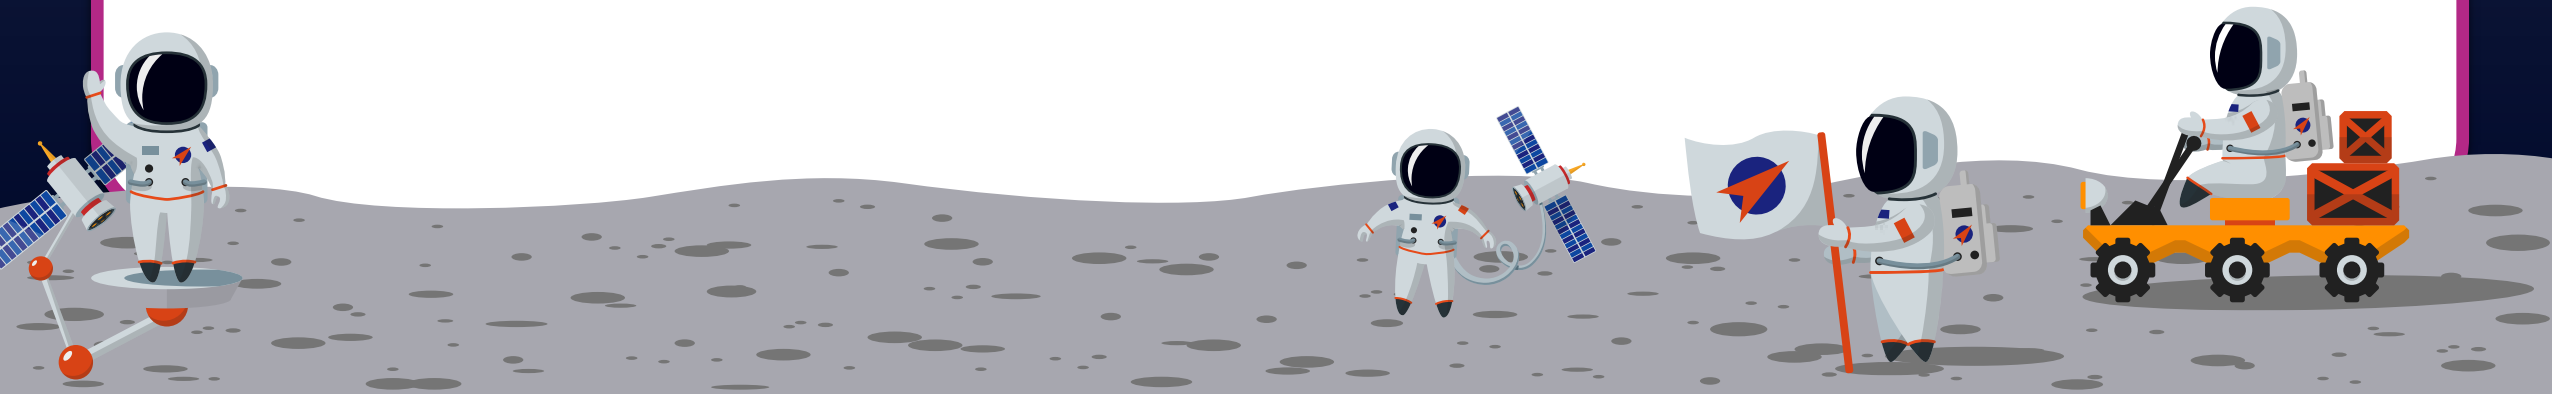

Voyager Station will be built by construction company Orbital Assembly Corporation, which describes itself as "the world's first large scale space construction company".

According to the organization,
construction of the 50,000-square-metre facility will start in 2026 with the first passengers visiting the hotel in 2027.

When it opens, the rotating hotel
will have rooms for up to 440 people.

The rotating ring-shaped form will give the station gravity equivalent to one-sixth of the Earth's.

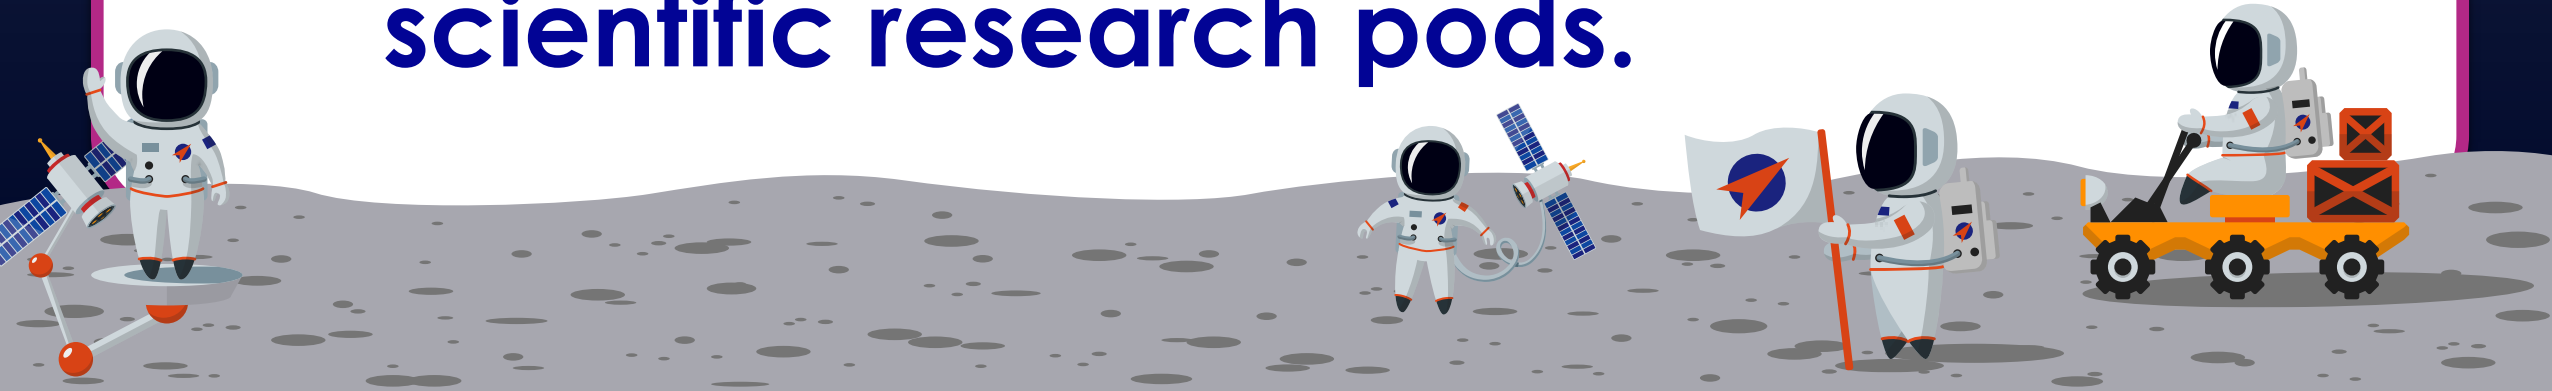

The hotel will have luxury villas and individual bedrooms.

Moreover, the hotel will contain restaurants, bars and gyms.

This ring will support the 24 habitation modules, which will be used for hotel accommodation, restaurants, bars, gyms, crew accommodation and scientific research pods.

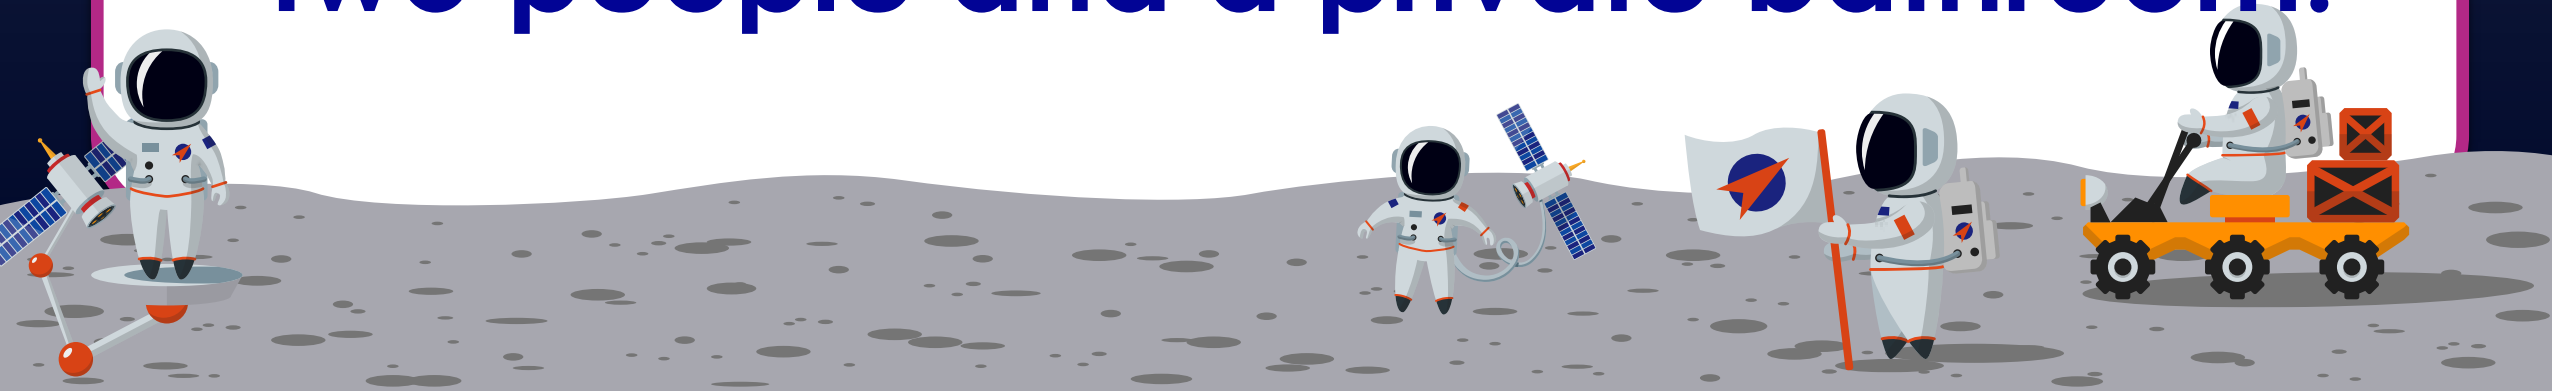

Voyager Station will contain a range of holiday accommodation options with 500-square-metre "luxury villas" that will be available to be rented for a week, months or permanently.

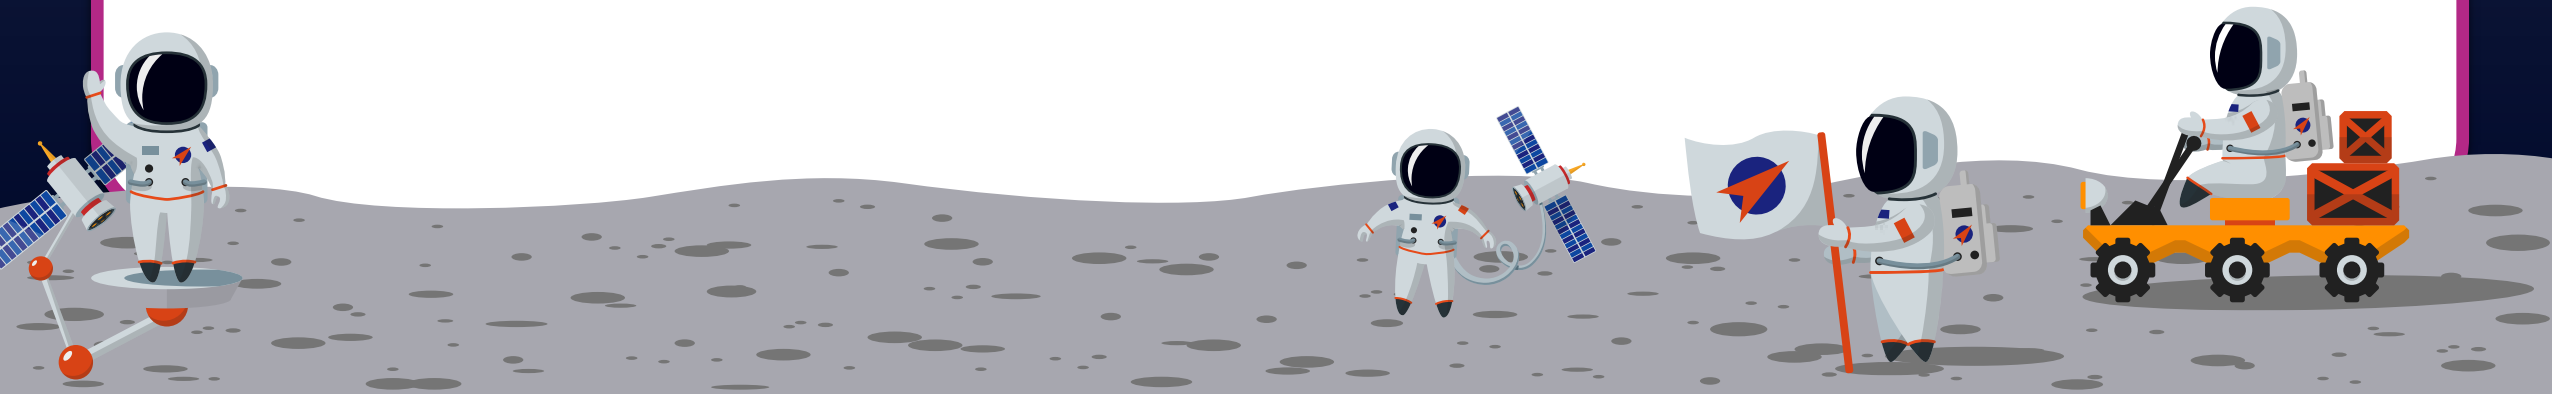

These villas will have sleeping space for 16 guests along with three bathrooms and cooking facilities.

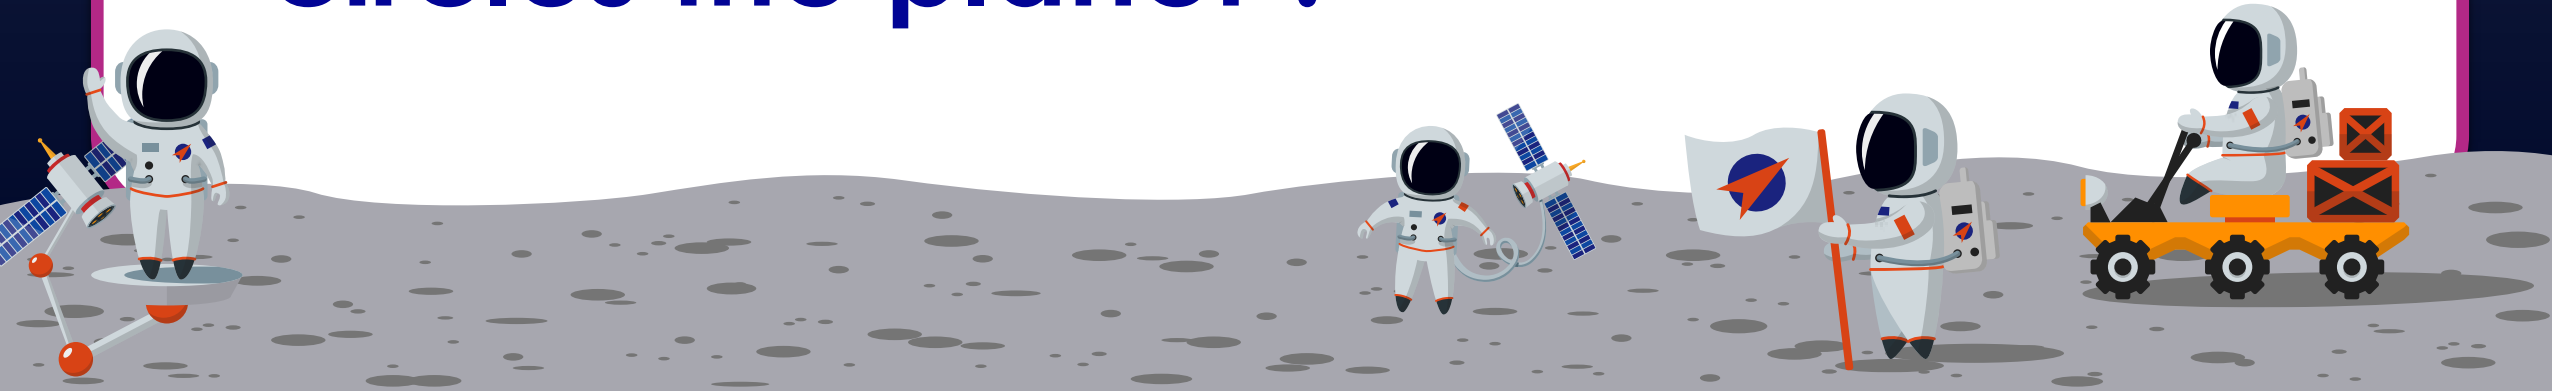

Alongside the villa, the space station will have numerous 30-square-metre hotel suites that will have beds for two people and a private bathroom.

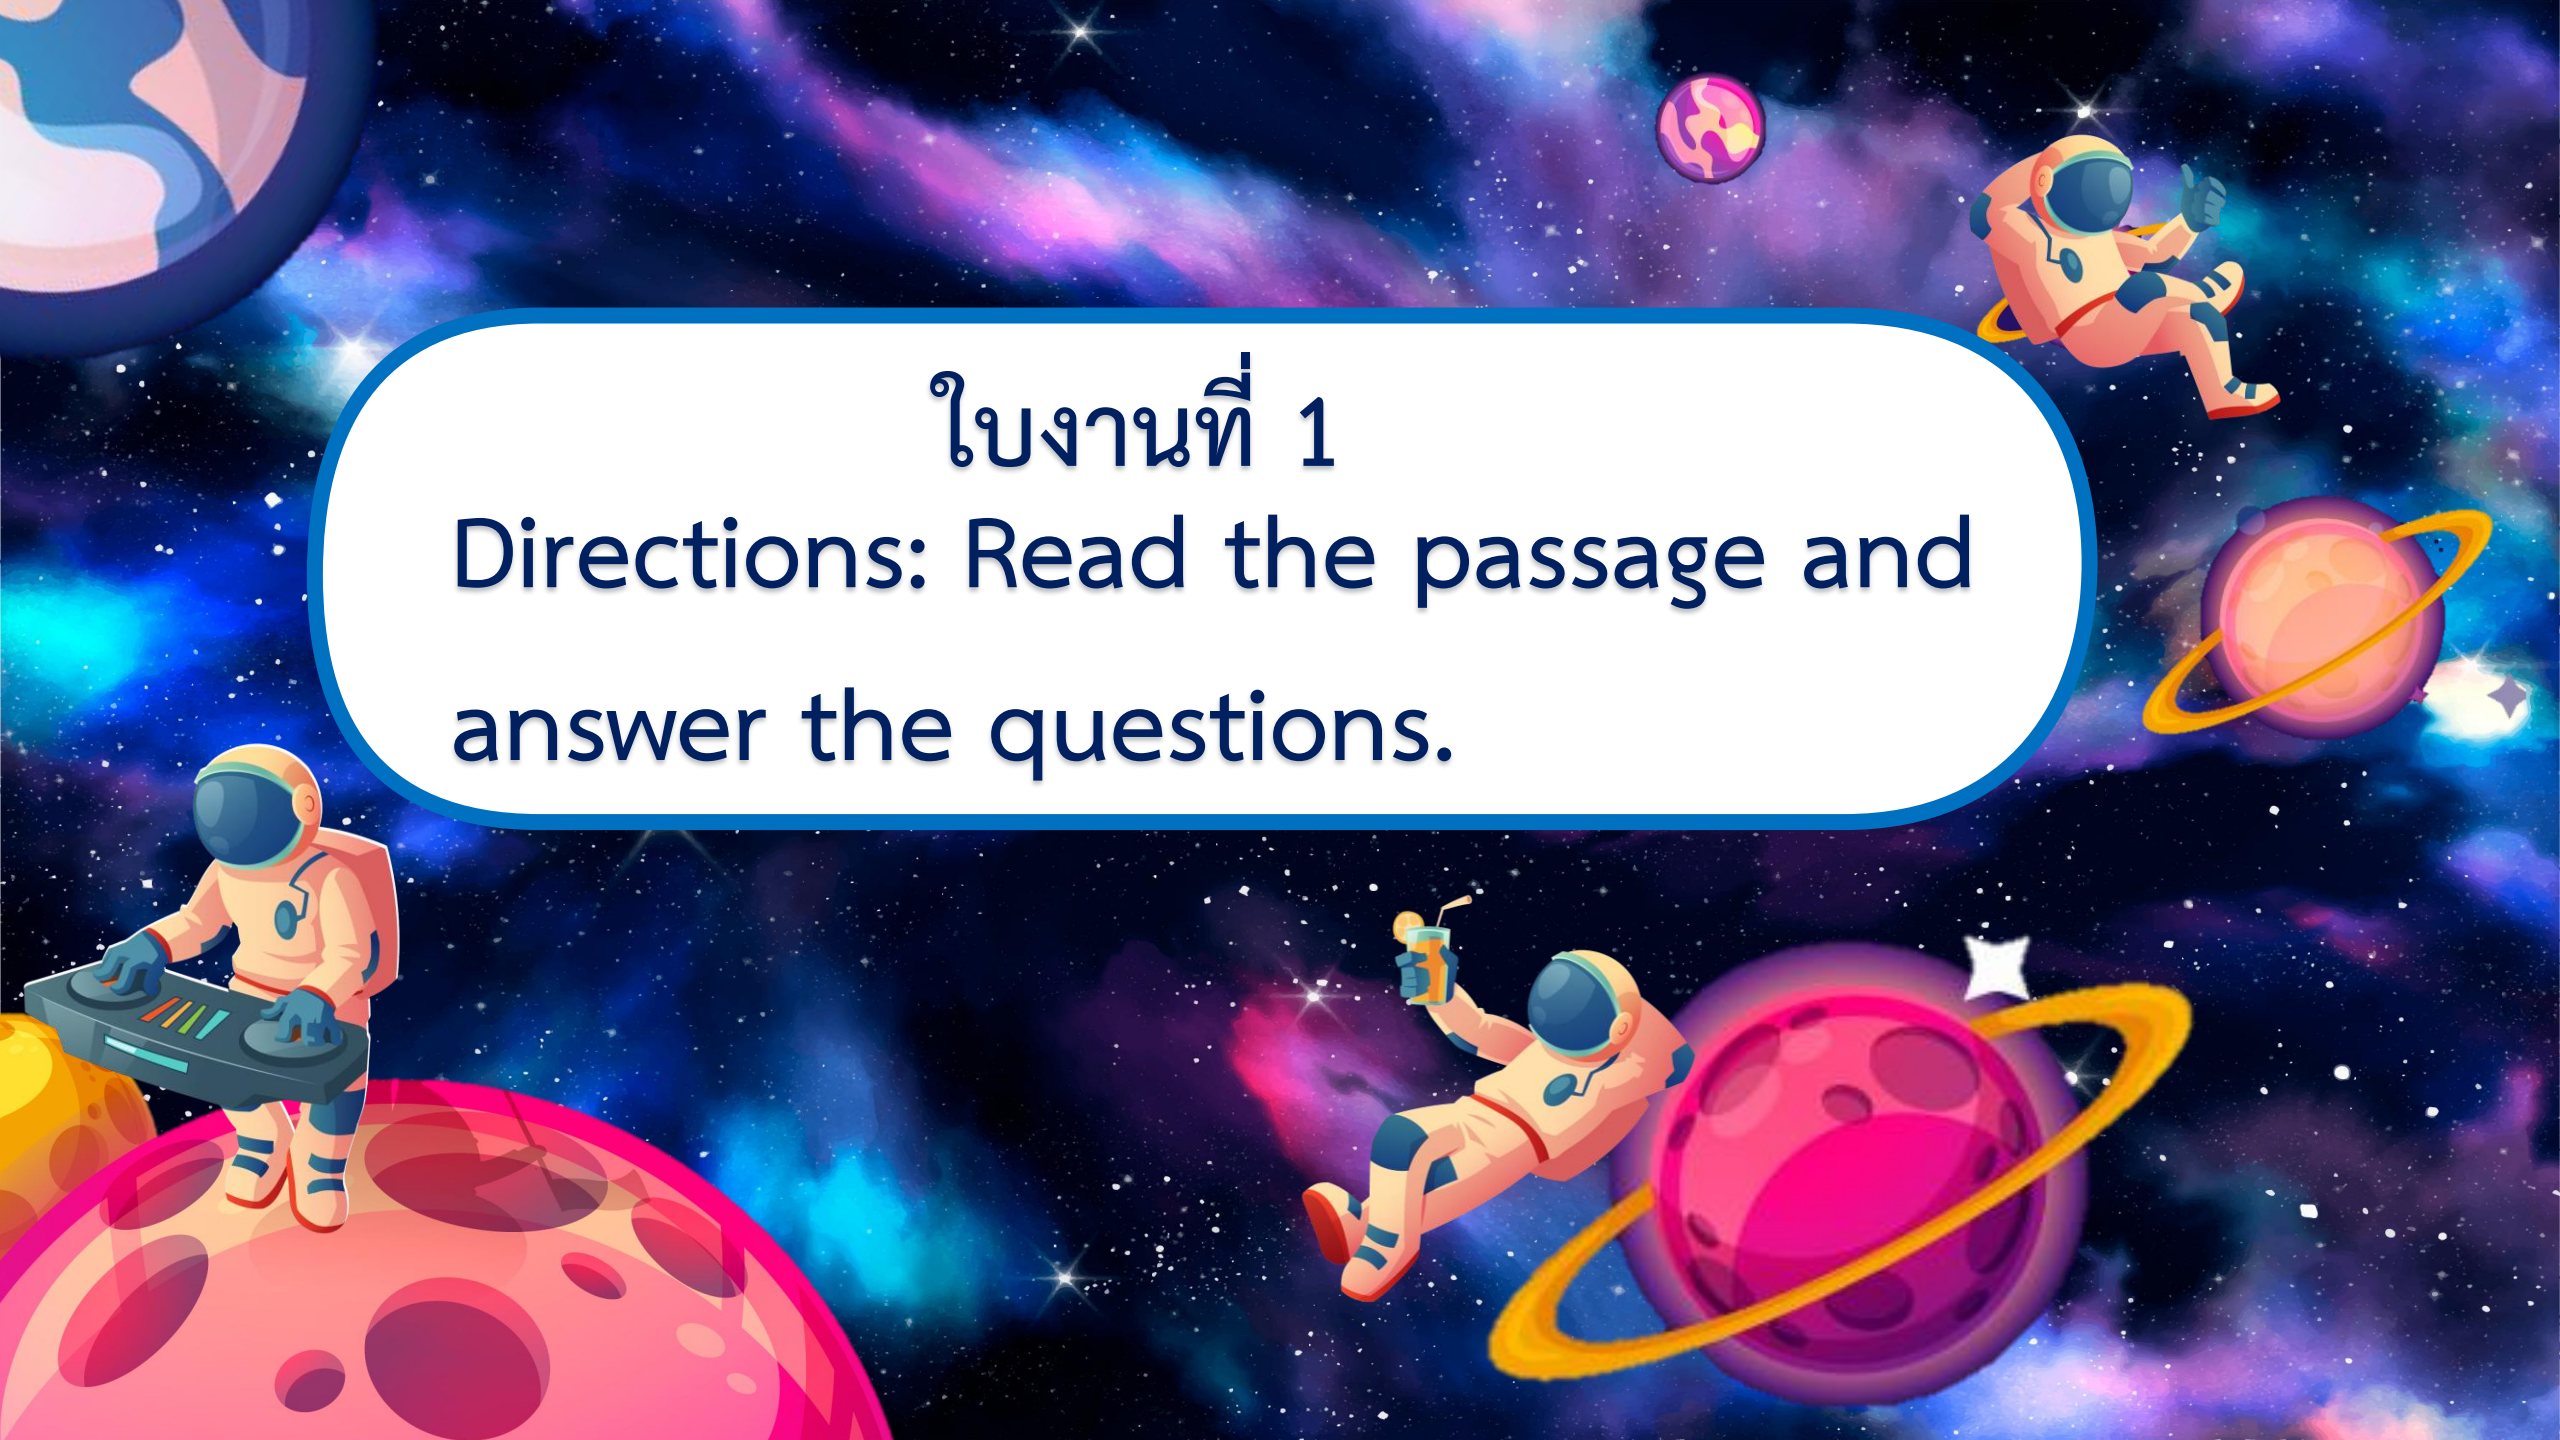

An activity and gym module with seven-meter-high ceilings will be used for low-gravity games.

At night, it will be used as a concert venue where "the biggest musicians on Earth will rock the station as it circles the planet".
