5 Easy Steps to Make a Krathong

To make a Krathong is not hard. Follow these steps to make beautiful Krathong. First, cut or slice a banana tree trunk. Banana tree slices are used to form the base of a traditional Krathong. You can buy the prepared banana tree trunks before the Loy Krathong Festival. Second, cut banana leaves and cover your slice of banana tree with banana leaves. Cut out a long strip of a banana leaf then wrap it around the edge of your banana tree slice so that none of the wood is showing. Similarly, use a circular piece of banana leaf to cover the bottom of your slice of wood. You can attach the leaves to the wood using pins, tape, or toothpicks. Now that your base is complete. Third, cut out many long strips of banana leaves, fold the leaves into petals, and attach them to the base. Most Krathongs are meant to resemble the shape of a lotus flower, but it's okay to get a little outside of the box. You can use traditional shapes like triangles and diamonds or test your creativity by creating flowers and other interesting designs. Fourth, Decorate the Krathong with flowers. Flowers that are commonly used to decorate Krathong include lotus, roses, marigolds, and orchids. Last, Place a small candle and three incense sticks in the Krathong. Add the candle by placing a toothpick into the bottom and then pinning it to the center of the Krathong. You can directly pierce the incense sticks into the base. The candle and incense should both be standing straight up (if they lean it can cause your Krathong to capsize). You can also put other things in your Krathong such as coins, nail clippings, hair, and bits of old clothes.
