

รายวิชา ภาษาอังกฤษ

รหัสวิชา อ23102 ชั้นมัธยมศึกษาปีที่ 3

เรื่อง New Year around the World

ครูผู้สอน ครูวัลลภ ใจหมั่น

ครูปีนปิ่นทร์ แสงจันทร์

The background is a dark blue gradient. In the top-left corner, there are two gift boxes: one light blue with a white ribbon and one orange with a red ribbon. In the bottom-left corner, there are two more gift boxes: one red and one pink, both with white ribbons. Scattered throughout the background are small, colorful confetti pieces. In the top-right corner, there are three hanging lanterns: one yellow, one pink, and one white. In the bottom-right corner, there are three white rabbits running towards the right, and a large, stylized light blue cloud.

Unit 5

Festivals and Celebrations

The background is a dark blue gradient decorated with colorful confetti. In the top-left corner, there are two gift boxes: one light blue with a white ribbon and a speaker icon, and one orange with a red ribbon. In the top-right, several glowing lanterns in shades of pink, orange, and white hang from thin lines. At the bottom, there are more gift boxes in red and pink with white ribbons, and three white rabbits running across the scene. A large, light yellow banner with a dark brown border is positioned in the center, featuring a yellow ribbon with purple hearts on its top-left edge.

New Year around the World

จุดประสงค์การเรียนรู้

1) นักเรียนสามารถอธิบายข้อมูลเกี่ยวกับ
เทศกาลปีใหม่ในแต่ละประเทศได้

Thai New Year

How do we celebrate the
Thai New Year?

New Year Celebrations in China

Celebrated in January or February, depending on the lunar (moon) calendar

China

China's New Year celebrations do not occur at the same time as Australia. The date of Chinese New Year is based on a lunar (moon) calendar and takes place on the second new moon after the winter solstice. Chinese New Year is a 15 day festival with many traditions.

Traditionally, Chinese New Year activities can include:

- cleaning the house to symbolise removing bad luck and making room to receive good luck
- putting up red decorations around the house to symbolise future success
- a reunion dinner with extended family on New Year's Eve with lucky dishes such as fish and dumplings
- fireworks displays to ward off evil
- gift giving, in particular gifts of red envelopes containing money
- lion and dragon dances at festivals

Each Chinese year is associated with one of the 12 animal signs of the Chinese zodiac calendar.

China

1. What kind of calendar do we base the Chinese New Year on?

China

2. What do Chinese people usually do on Chinese New Year?

China

3. How long do we celebrate
Chinese New Year?

New Year Celebrations in New Zealand

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Along with Kiribati and Christmas Island, New Zealand is among the first in the world to celebrate the new year.

Many of New Zealand's New Year celebrations are held outside under the sky and can go for several days.

Traditionally in New Zealand, it is a time to let go of all troubles and worries and set positive goals and resolutions for the future year ahead.

The traditional people of New Zealand are called Maori. They celebrate their new year in June or July, depending on the lunar (moon) calendar, with food, dancing, music and stories.

New Zealand

New Zealand

1. What do they think of New Year celebrations in New Zealand?

New Year Celebrations in the U.S.A.

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Throughout the U.S.A., many celebrations and events are held to welcome in the new year.

Times Square in New York is one of the most famous locations for New Year's Eve celebrations in the world. People gather for live music and performances before they watch the 'Ball Drop'. A large and brightly lit ball sits high in the sky and slowly lowers down during the minute before midnight, counting down to the new year.

Many Americans will gather on New Year's Day to watch the Rose Bowl game of American Football.

Preview

U.S.A

U.S.A

1. What is the 'Ball Drop'?

U.S.A

2. What do Americans do on New Year's Day?

New Year Celebrations in Scotland

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Scotland have one of the biggest New Year celebrations, known as Hogmanay. Hogmanay means the last day of the old year. Traditionally, it is celebrated with lots of food, dancing, gift giving and visiting family and friends. Many Hogmanay celebrations are held around Edinburgh Castle.

At midnight on New Year's Eve, people will cross their arms over their bodies and join hands with the people standing next to them to sing a special song called 'Auld Lang Syne'. This is an old Scottish song that is a way of saying 'days gone by'.

In Scotland, an old tradition called first footing is practiced. It is believed that the first person who enters your home after midnight will bring all the luck for the coming year. This person is called the 'first-footer' and symbolises good luck bringing gifts of coal, bread, money or greenery.

"EdinburghNYE" by Robbie Shade is licensed under CC BY 2.0.

Scotland

Scotland

1. What does 'Hogmanay' mean?

Scotland

2. What do people in Scotland believe on New Year's Day?

New Year Celebrations in Germany

Celebrated on
31st December
(New Year's
Eve) and 1st
January (New Year's Day)

The German New Year's Eve is also known as Silvester, named in honor of Pope Silvester who died on 31st December 335.

There aren't any official events organised for fireworks on New Year's Eve in Germany. Instead, fireworks become available to buy and for groups of people to safely create their own.

Traditionally, German people would melt down small pieces of lead or tin and then quickly place it into a bowl of water. The metal solidifies in the water and predictions are made based on the shape about what the year ahead holds for you.

Germany

Germany

1. Why do Germans call their New Year's Eve as Silvester ?

Germany

2. How do Germans do for predicting the year ahead on New Year's Day?

New Year Celebrations in Japan

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Ōmisoka is the Japanese term for New Year's Eve.

Japanese people complete a big clean up of their house in the lead up to New Year's Eve. It is believed that this will help you start the new year with a fresh mind.

Traditionally, it is not common to see fireworks at midnight, instead bells will play for about 1-2 hours as a Buddhist tradition. The bells are struck 108 times as it is a sacred number.

A shimekazari is a wreath made of straw rope, paper strips, bitter oranges and fern leaves. Japanese people will make these and hang them on their doors to ward off evil spirits.

Japan

Japan

1. What do Japanese people call their New Year's Eve?

Japan

2. Why do Japanese people have a big clean up of their house on their New Year's Eve?

Japan

3. Why are the bells struck 108 times?

บทเรียนครั้งต่อไป

เรื่อง New Year's Wishes

New Year

สิ่งที่ต้องเตรียม

1. ใบความรู้ เรื่อง New Year's Wishes
2. ใบงานที่ 1 เรื่อง Write and say your own New Year's Wishes

(สามารถดาวน์โหลดได้ที่ www.dltv.ac.th)

New Year Celebrations in China

Celebrated in January or February, depending on the lunar (moon) calendar

China

China's New Year celebrations do not occur at the same time as Australia. The date of Chinese New Year is based on a lunar (moon) calendar and takes place on the second new moon after the winter solstice. Chinese New Year is a 15 day festival with many traditions.

Traditionally, Chinese New Year activities can include:

- cleaning the house to symbolise removing bad luck and making room to receive good luck
- putting up red decorations around the house to symbolise future success
- a reunion dinner with extended family on New Year's Eve with lucky dishes such as fish and dumplings
- fireworks displays to ward off evil
- gift giving, in particular gifts of red envelopes containing money
- lion and dragon dances at festivals

Each Chinese year is associated with one of the 12 animal signs of the Chinese zodiac calendar.

New Year Celebrations in New Zealand

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Along with Kiribati and Christmas Island, New Zealand is among the first in the world to celebrate the new year.

Many of New Zealand's New Year celebrations are held outside under the sky and can go for several days.

Traditionally in New Zealand, it is a time to let go of all troubles and worries and set positive goals and resolutions for the future year ahead.

The traditional people of New Zealand are called Maori. They celebrate their new year in June or July, depending on the lunar (moon) calendar, with food, dancing, music and stories.

"Ahi Kā (8)" by Kristina D.C. Hoepfner is licensed under CC BY SA 2.0.

New Zealand

New Year Celebrations in the U.S.A.

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Throughout the U.S.A., many celebrations and events are held to welcome in the new year.

Times Square in New York is one of the most famous locations for New Year's Eve celebrations in the world. People gather for live music and performances before they watch the 'Ball Drop'. A large and brightly lit ball sits high in the sky and slowly lowers down during the minute before midnight, counting down to the new year.

Many Americans will gather on New Year's Day to watch the Rose Bowl game of American Football.

Preview

U.S.A

New Year Celebrations in Scotland

Celebrated on 31st December (New Year's Eve) and 1st January (New Year's Day)

Scotland have one of the biggest New Year celebrations, known as Hogmanay. Hogmanay means the last day of the old year. Traditionally, it is celebrated with lots of food, dancing, gift giving and visiting family and friends. Many Hogmanay celebrations are held around Edinburgh Castle.

At midnight on New Year's Eve, people will cross their arms over their bodies and join hands with the people standing next to them to sing a special song called 'Auld Lang Syne'. This is an old Scottish song that is a way of saying 'days gone by'.

In Scotland, an old tradition called first footing is practiced. It is believed that the first person who enters your home after midnight will bring all the luck for the coming year. This person is called the 'first-footer' and symbolises good luck bringing gifts of coal, bread, money or greenery.

"EdinburghNYE" by Robbie Shade is licensed under CC BY 2.0.

Scotland

New Year Celebrations in Germany

Celebrated on
31st December
(New Year's
Eve) and 1st
January (New Year's Day)

The German New Year's Eve is also known as Silvester, named in honor of Pope Silvester who died on 31st December 335.

There aren't any official events organised for fireworks on New Year's Eve in Germany. Instead, fireworks become available to buy and for groups of people to safely create their own.

Traditionally, German people would melt down small pieces of lead or tin and then quickly place it into a bowl of water. The metal solidifies in the water and predictions are made based on the shape about what the year ahead holds for you.

Germany

New Year Celebrations in Japan

Celebrated on
31st December
(New Year's
Eve) and 1st
January (New Year's Day)

Ōmisoka is the Japanese term for New Year's Eve.

Japanese people complete a big clean up of their house in the lead up to New Year's Eve. It is believed that this will help you start the new year with a fresh mind.

Traditionally, it is not common to see fireworks at midnight, instead bells will play for about 1-2 hours as a Buddhist tradition. The bells are struck 108 times as it is a sacred number.

A shimekazari is a wreath made of straw rope, paper strips, bitter oranges and fern leaves. Japanese people will make these and hang them on their doors to ward off evil spirits.

Japan

