Situation: Jubjang is reading a book about "Gorillas". Let's read with her.

Gorillas

Gorillas are big animals. Some are as tall as a grown-up person. Their height is between 1.25 and 1.8 meters, and their weight is between 100 and 270 kilograms.

There are different kinds of gorillas, and they live in forests in different parts of Africa.

Gorillas eat some parts of plants, like fruits, leaves, and stems. They don't eat meat; they are like big vegetarians.

Gorillas live in families. There's a big, strong male gorilla called the "silverback" who takes care of everyone.

In the wild, a gorilla's lifespan is between 35-40 years. Some gorillas live in places where people help take care of them, and they can live even longer.
