Once upon a time, in a small village, there was a kind boy named Tommy. Tommy loved to help his neighbors, but he always wished he could do more.

One day, Tommy found an old lamp while playing near the river. He rubbed the lamp, and a genie appeared. The genie said, "I will grant you one wish."

Tommy thought for a moment and said, "I wish I could fly like a bird."

The genie smiled and said, "If you could fly, you would see the world from above and help people in new ways. But this is not a wish I can grant. However, I can make you faster and stronger."

Tommy agreed, and the genie granted his wish. From that day on, Tommy was the fastest and strongest boy in the village. He helped carry heavy loads, ran errands quickly, and saved a kitten stuck in a tree.

Tommy often thought, "If I had known the genie would help me, I would have found the lamp sooner." He also thought, "If I were stronger before, I would have saved that kitten much earlier."

Tommy's new strength and speed made him a hero in the village. He realized that even though he couldn't fly, he could still make a big difference with his new abilities. And from then on, Tommy was always grateful for the genie's gift.
