ARAYA'S EXCITING STORY

This year at the end of August, I went to Dream World, a theme park in Thanyaburi, Pathumthani, Thailand with my parents and a few cousins. It is a huge and cool amusement park I had ever seen. There are different fun riders, amazing shops and restaurants, beautiful photo shots and interesting shows. My cousins and I bought a package that I was able to join rides, Snow Town and Water Fun. We enjoyed spending a day there.

First, I went to play the Tornado, a seven-storey swinging ride. It was my first time ever being on the ride. I was terrified, but that was part of the adventures. My cousins said "Come on Araya, you will be fine." Then I was on the ride, and I had so much fun screaming riding it in the air.

Then my cousin, Ann, wanted to try Grand Canyon – a ride with a great adventure when you climb onto a raft for a trip down the white-water rapids. She was excited, but it wasn't for me. I thought the twisting water made me dizzy. Also, I don't like to get wet. That was disappointing. After that I made a decision not to join my cousins for Water fun. I waited for them and had good ice-cream. I felt relaxed on my own.

The final place I went to was Snow Town which was a major highlight for both young and old visitors. It was freezing because the temperature never rises above 5 °C. I was on the white snow with a slide. The atmosphere was amazing and like I was in the North Pole.

Finally, we had to go home, but I will never forget this amazing theme park. I am sure I will visit it again.
