Cyber Crime

Fake Credit Cards

Last week, a man named Monty was sent to jail for copying thousands of credit cards. Monty was the leader of a gang. They added a small hidden machine to cash machines at petrol stations. This machine copied information from the credit cards when people used them. The gang made copies of the cards and used them to buy things in shops and on the internet. They also used the copied cards to take money from people's bank accounts. Monty copied 3,500 cards and stole over $27,000.

Virus emails!

On the morning of 4 May 2021, thousands of people received an email with the message: "You are awesome." People were happy to get it. But the email had a virus. When people opened it, the virus sent itself to everyone in their address book. It spread quickly and caused serious problems for hundreds of computer systems. Even large organizations, including the British government, had to close their email systems to remove the virus. A Filipino programmer created the virus, but the police finally arrested him.

Instructions: Read the passage carefully. Answer all the questions in complete sentences.

1. How did the hidden machine copy credit card information?

2. What did the gang do with the copied credit cards?

3. How did people feel when they received the email?

4. What problems did the virus cause?
